Abstract:

The Stock Viewer is a web development project designed to display real-time stock market data using HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. The goal of this project was to create an intuitive and user-friendly interface that allows users to search for and view detailed stock information, such as the current price, volume, and daily trends of various companies. By integrating APIs to fetch live stock data, the project aims to provide users with accurate and up-to-date information at their fingertips. The frontend was built with HTML and CSS to create a clean, visually appealing layout, while JavaScript was used to dynamically update the stock information without needing to refresh the page. The project serves as a practical way to learn the fundamentals of web development, including how to work with APIs, handle asynchronous operations, and create responsive layouts. Ultimately, the Stock Viewer serves as a simple but effective tool for those interested in tracking the stock market in real time.

        <h1>About Us</h1>
        Welcome to Stock Viewr, your go-to platform for easily tracking and analyzing stock data. Developed by Farzeen and Piyush as part of our web programming class project, Stock Viewr aims to provide users with real-time access to stock market information, financial charts, and in-depth market analysis.

Our mission is simple: to create a user-friendly tool that helps individuals stay informed about the stock market, make educated decisions, and track their investments with ease. Whether you're a beginner or an experienced trader, Stock Viewr offers valuable insights to guide your market journey.

Farzeen and Piyush, both passionate about programming and finance, came together to develop Stock Viewr as a way to combine our skills in web development with our interest in the stock market. As students in our web programming class, we saw an opportunity to create a platform that could help people manage their stock market research more efficiently.

We aim to empower users by giving them the tools to track and analyze their investments, helping them make smarter financial decisions. Stock Viewr was built with simplicity, speed, and accuracy in mind, providing a smooth user experience for everyone from beginners to seasoned investors.

Working:

We made this website purely using HTML, CSS and JavaScript. We made the entire frontend using html 'div' while using css properties of display like flex and block. We used a font called 'Boldonse' imported from Google fonts and imported it using CSS.

The "Stock Viewer" website serves as a comprehensive platform that allows users to access real-time stock information, learn about the service, understand the terms of use, and submit any complaints they might have.

Upon landing on the homepage, users are presented with a dynamic display of stock information, including stock names, symbols, and their current prices. This data is typically loaded through JavaScript, which ensures that users are always viewing the most up-to-date details. The homepage acts as a hub for stock watchers who want to quickly reference the market data for popular companies like Apple, Tesla, and Amazon. In addition to the stock data, the website provides a simple and intuitive navigation bar at the top, allowing users to seamlessly switch between other pages like the About page, which offers an overview of the platform's mission and goals.

The Terms & Conditions page outlines the legal disclaimers of using the platform, clarifying that the stock data is provided for informational purposes only and that the platform does not take responsibility for any financial decisions based on the information.

Furthermore, the Complaint Form page enables users to provide feedback or report issues with the service. The form asks for basic details such as the user's name, email, and the nature of their complaint, allowing the team behind Stock Viewer to address any concerns. The website uses JavaScript not only for dynamically loading the stock data on the homepage but also for handling the submission of the complaint form, validating inputs, and providing feedback to users. This combination of real-time data presentation, informative pages, and user-friendly interaction creates an efficient and engaging experience for anyone interested in the stock market.
